

Vic Hogg

Vic Hogg is the Deputy Director General of the Crime and Policing Group and is responsible for a wide range of policy and delivery functions across the crime reduction and policing landscape. He has worked in this area of the Home Office for the past 10 years, having previously filled Director posts, leading on:

- (i) The National Drugs Strategy,
- (ii) The Police Workforce Strategy, and
- (iii) Policing Policy and Operations

Vic joined the Civil Service following a brief spell in banking. His career has covered the Ministry of Defence, HM Revenue and Customs, and the Home Office and a variety of high profile responsibilities including policy, operations, financial management and HR.